

Helmut Neumann

CURRENT POSITIONS

Professor of Medicine; Consultant Internal Medicine and Gastroenterology

EDUCATIONAL AND CAREER EXPERIENCES

Dr. Neumann is Professor of Medicine at the Department of Medicine 1 at the University Hospital of Erlangen in Germany.

He is actively involved in basic and clinical research in the areas of advanced endoscopic imaging. His main research focus is inflammatory bowel disease, infectious colitis, colon polyps and Barrett's esophagus. Dr. Neumann has received a number of awards for clinical excellence and acts as a reviewer for various journals including The Lancet, Gastroenterology, Gastrointestinal Endoscopy and Endoscopy. Dr. Neumann acts as Associate Editor for Digestive Endoscopy and as Editorial Board Member of Endoscopy, United European Journal and The Video Journal and Encyclopedia of GI Endoscopy. He has also been assigned as a member of the ASGE International Committee.

Dr. Neumann has published over 160 articles in the field of advanced endoscopic imaging and on new and emerging endoscopic devices. His scientific research was published in high-rated journals, including Nature, Lancet Oncology, Nature Medicine, Gastroenterology, Gastrointestinal Endoscopy and Endoscopy.